

About LIHEAP

The federal Administration for Children and Families (ACF) describes the Low Income Home Energy Assistance Program (LIHEAP) as a program that “helps keep families safe and healthy through initiatives that assist families with energy costs.” LIHEAP provides federally funded assistance in managing costs associated with:

- Home energy bills
- Energy crises
- Weatherization and energy-related minor home repairs

LIHEAP can help you stay warm in the winter and cool in the summer through programs that reduce the risk of health and safety problems that arise from unsafe heating and cooling practices.

This toolkit contains resources intended to help community-based organization (CBO) grant recipients and other stakeholders ensure that available funding reaches households that need assistance with their heating and cooling costs this year.

You will find a variety of outreach materials with social media graphics, outreach fliers, and fact sheets designed to help keep families safe during the winter and summer months.
